AMERICAN TOUR
With Chris Fleming

From an early age, Chris Fleming was prone to experiencing extraordinary encounters with ghosts and unexplained phenomenon. On many occasions these experiences were collective, meaning shared with eyewitnesses. While some of the events would be classified as divine intervention, there were others that to this day Chris still considers terrifying.

After years of being approached and hearing others talk about their own amazing experiences, Chris chose to document these in his publication called UNKNOWN Magazine: Real experiences of unusual phenomena, which ran spring 1997 to early 2001. As publisher, art director, and editor Chris set out to create a magazine forum for people across the globe to share there first hand encounters in one packaged medium. This sharp new approach and well designed publication created such an impact that similar publications quickly updated their own formats.

Even though the magazine is no longer published Chris focused on a more powerful medium, the internet. With the launch of Unknown Magazine.com Chris felt he was able to reach more people and have a forum that people could go to share and discuss their experiences, questions, and findings.

Since the creation of Unknown Magazine, Chris has met countless ordinary and extraordinary people from all walks of life. With their testimonies and passing of information he has been privy to some incredible and not freely discussed information on the world around us, both seen and unseen.

Over the years he has spoken on numerous radio and TV talk shows all around the world discussing ghosts and supernatural activity as well as given lectures on his own personal experiences. With a level headed down to earth approach Chris wants people to understand and realize that life goes on after death.

In his spare time he continues to join forces with various ghost hunters and paranormal investigators pursuing the unknown and researching new forms of communication with the other side. Whenever able, he lends his ear and gives peace of mind to those whom have had their own traumatic paranormal experiences. Whether through compassionate discussions or sensitive and awareness readings to better assist the individual in question understand their current situation or purpose of why we are here.

He is currently broadcasting his own pod cast show titled, "Spirit Talk" and has recently begun writing one of many books he hopes to publish on his own personal paranormal experiences and insights with the other side. He hopes to help people understand who we are, why we die, and where we are going.
